Around the house Fritz is much more relaxed and happy. He loves his tummy rubs and enjoys going into our back garden for ball games! We are still walking him between 4 and 5 miles every day. Did I tell you that I lost 6 pounds the first week that we had him?

We celebrated Fritz's 3rd birthday yesterday! He is not an April Fool, but he is a witty and fun loving guy with a lot of jokes perking in his busy brain!

Fritz is good and peaceful in his crate but loose in our home he is still very restless. He wants to play with his toys or just run around and grab things and chew things ( more like outside play). Although he has good down time when we put him in his crate, we have yet to see him just lie down on the floor and relax when he is with us in the house or in the yard. He still is very insecure and wants our constant attention.

We are walking him about 3 miles every day, although sometimes more. I think today he may get about 6. I think finally all the walks and the running and playing in the park will help him be more settled at home. At this point I would say, Fritz is the most relaxed and the most enjoyable to be around when he is on his walks , or in the park, or playing with us in the back yard.
